*Announces Special Online
Concert to launch debut album
“Freedom”*

FRIDAY, 13 NOVEMBER -

Future Radio has announced their international, online album launch concert to celebrate the release of their debut album, “Freedom”, on Friday, 13 November. This will be the first opportunity for audiences to experience a Future Radio show, which promises to be an unforgettable experience.

In the same vein as their music videos, the show deals with the concept of emancipation and encourages the passionate pursuit of purpose. Through a combination of words, music and visuals, Future Radio brings an energetic and theatrical experience to their audience.

“We are really excited to launch our debut album, ‘Freedom’ with such a unique and ambitious live performance,” front man Johnny Future said. “Initially, we were planning to do a live album launch, but in these uncertain times we weren’t sure it would be possible. In the end, this platform gives us the opportunity to launch our album to an international audience, directly to their living room.”

Future Radio's album, which releases on the morning of the launch, is a 15-track concept album and includes their first three singles "Fire with Fire", "Run Baby, Run" and "Break Us". As the name suggests, the album deals with the idea of "Freedom" and is intended to take the listener on a liberation voyage.

Catch Future Radio's international, online album launch concert on Friday, 13 November at 7:30pm SAT. Tickets cost R75. For more information and easy navigation to the ticketing site visit: www.futureradioband.co.za. Ticket holders will be able to watch and re-watch the show until Tuesday, 17 November at 12 midnight, SAT.
